

The Appian Way

This most famous and strategically important road in ancient Rome was named after Appius Claudius, the man behind its construction. The road contributed to the wide success of the Roman army as well as to its trade and commerce.